

Summer School in Chinese Digital Humanities

July 6-9, 2016

Leiden University, the Netherlands

Join us for a 4-day programme to discuss how digital methods can further research in Chinese Studies.

Take part in

- hands-on sessions led by experienced professionals on different aspects of digital humanities research
- discussion sessions with presentations by the participants
- informative talks on funding, legal issues and data sharing practices.

For the schedule and other details:

<http://chinese-empires.eu/events/conferences/>

There is no registration fee. All accommodation costs and meals will be covered for participants. Only travel within the European region can be reimbursed (maximum subsidies of 200 € p.p.).

How to apply

To participate, send an application consisting of your CV, a brief research proposal, and, if applying as a student, one letter of recommendation to Ms. Monica Chen at m.klasing.chen@hum.leidenuniv.nl by Friday, February 26, 2016.

蔣經國國際學術交流基金會
Chiang Ching-kuo Foundation for International Scholarly Exchange

Leiden
University
Institute for Area Studies